Prabha focuses her practice on franchise and commercial law, assisting clients routinely with procurement and supply chain contracts, distribution agreements, nondisclosure agreements, franchise regulatory compliance, and corporate governance. She primarily represents franchisors, purchasing cooperatives, complex distribution systems, and product suppliers. She brings a practical understanding of business operations and commercial relationships to her practice, informed by her experience interning with the legal team at GE Appliances, a Haier company, where she gained valuable experience in supply chain and commercial contracts and regulatory compliance.

She graduated summa cum laude from the University of Louisville Louis D. Brandeis School of Law, where she served as Senior Articles Editor of the University of Louisville Law Review and held other leadership roles.

During law school, as a student attorney in the Entrepreneurship Clinic, Prabha counseled clients on entity formation, prepared organizational and corporate governance documents, and delivered educational presentations on business entity selection at Western Kentucky University's Gordon Ford College of Business. She also participated in LaunchIT, a startup and corporate innovation bootcamp, where she assisted with customer interviews and pitch preparation.
