Clay counsels clients on complex intellectual property (IP) matters spanning a broad range of industries, including agricultural, manufacturing, chemical, healthcare, consumer product, bioscience, and technology. He develops creative solutions to help clients make intelligent business decisions when it comes to intellectual property; from securing and valuing important intellectual property rights to due diligence reviews and audits to monetization and enforcement efforts. With oversight of corporate global patent portfolios, he prepares and facilitates ongoing prosecution of patent applications before the USPTO and all international patent offices.

As a key component of his practice, Clay consistently assists clients in unlocking the value of their IP and the commercialization of their innovation through strategic alliances. These can take many forms, all of which he has proven success in facilitating, from material transfer agreements, joint development and collaboration agreements, distribution and supply agreements, and licensing arrangements. He counsels clients on IP enforcement opportunities and has noteworthy patent litigation and enforcement experience before U.S. federal courts, the International Trade Commission, and the USPTO.

Clay is ranked in Chambers USA: America's Leading Lawyers for Business as one of Ohio's Leaders in Their Field for Intellectual Property, named to The Best Lawyers in America for Patent Law, named to the Ohio Super Lawyers list. Clay has also served as an adjunct professor at the University of Cincinnati College of Law offering a seminar focused on the importance of protecting intellectual property.
