Aaron represents clients in a wide range of areas with a primary focus on complex business litigation. He serves as vice chair of the firm's International Services Practice Group, and heads our Middle East & North Africa (MENA) desk. Aaron also chairs the firm's International Dispute Resolution working group that advises clients on international arbitration and cross-border litigation matters. Aaron previously served as the United States representative to the Young Lawyers Committee of the International Bar Association and speaks frequently on topics ranging from corporate compliance to terrorism. He also represents trustees, executors, and beneficiaries in probate litigation throughout Ohio.

Prior to entering law school, Aaron worked for the international trade practice of a Washington, D.C. law firm and analyzed money laundering and financial crimes cases for a large plaintiffs' firm. During law school, Aaron served as a Notes and Comments Editor of the University of Cincinnati Law Review and was a three-year fellow at UC's Corporate Law Center.

Aaron is an adjunct professor at the University of Cincinnati College of Law, teaching International Business Transactions.
