Mike serves as a member for the firm's Government Services practice group where he focuses his practice on a variety of legislative and procurement opportunities including policy development on both a local and state level.

Mike is the former Indianapolis Chamber Director of Public Policy. At the Chamber, he led efforts to improve the functionality of government and develop and advance mass transportation throughout the central Indiana region. This work required coordination of multiple state and local agencies, as well as federal elected officials.

Mike is also community leader and active in the Republican Party. Formerly the Marion County Republican Party Executive Director, Mike helped found the Broad Ripple GOP Club, a young professionals organization created to engage the next generation of leaders. He has also served on the board of the Downtown GOP Club, a young Republicans group focused on making Indiana better. Mike has also worked on countless local, state and federal campaigns. Additionally, Mike serves as a board member on the Make-A-Wish foundation and is active with his neighborhood association.

Mike's Relevant Experience

Government Relations

Government is a discipline in information. It is essential to collect as much information for clients as necessary to make deliberate decisions. Mike strives to gather that information for our clients and help walk them through the decisions they need to make to achieve success.

Mike has:

- Helped in the formation and activation of a coalition to advocate for improved transit options in central Indiana that successfully passed legislation in 2014
- Represented clients on state and local procurement matters in a number of different industries
- Represented a client on one of the first vertical public-private-partnership procurement projects in the U.S.
