20 F Street NW
Suite 450
Washington, D.C. 20001

As Chief Diversity, Equity, Inclusion & Belonging (DEIB) Officer, Nirvana leads the development and implementation of the firm's DEIB strategy and policies, particularly as it relates to the recruitment, retention, and advancement of diverse talent. In this role, she partners with key stakeholders, firm leaders, and department heads to integrate DEIB principles and best practices into the firm's strategic growth plan and client service initiatives. She also oversees the firm's DEIB analytics function and affinity group engagement, while working closely with various committee chairs and serving as the lead contact for internal and public-facing communications on DEIB matters.

Nirvana has nearly 20 years of experience in the legal industry, including multiple leadership roles spanning both private practice and academia. Her professional portfolio includes several years of corporate legal practice in law firm and in-house settings, followed by progressive DEIB roles, in which she designed and facilitated initiatives to deepen DEIB acumen, fostered cross-cultural awareness, and established strong mentoring and sponsorship practices. She has also led efforts to strengthen relationships with clients by providing client value-adds focused on client-specific DEIB goals and collaboration, responding to inquiries, benchmarking for certification and goal-tracking purposes, and collaborating with firm practice groups and industry teams on strategies to support, educate, and establish DEIB goals and best practices.

Nirvana is passionate about coaching and mentoring associates on professional development and advising firm leaders on strategies to support underrepresented attorneys in the talent pipeline. She is a frequent speaker and presenter on topics including neurodiversity, corporate social responsibility, and the retention of underrepresented talent.

Nirvana earned her J.D. from Emory University School of Law and her B.A., magna cum laude, in Communications and Sociology from the University of Pennsylvania.
