Maggie is recognized as one of the top appellate attorneys in the country. She is a member of the American Academy of Appellate Lawyers®, an invitation-only association consisting of the top 1% of appellate attorneys across the country. In addition to being named as one of the top 25 Women Attorneys in the state of Indiana by Super Lawyers®, Maggie has been selected as one of The Best Lawyers in America® in the field of appellate practice every year since 2009, and she was named the 2021 “Lawyer of the Year” by Best Lawyers for appellate practice. Maggie is also recognized as an expert in Indiana’s Access to Court Records Rules (formerly Administrative Rule 9).

She also has been identified as an Indiana Super Lawyers® appellate attorney for over fifteen years, listed as a Chambers USA® Top Tier Appellate Litigator”.

Maggie has been involved in over 500 appeals and thousands of appellate filings and proceedings, and has represented businesses, individuals, and groups at every level of the state and federal appellate courts, as well as advising trial counsel during the litigation process. Maggie also has extensive experience representing Amicus Curiae parties in Indiana’s appellate courts, specializing in Indiana Supreme Court practice.

Her clients say that her appellate “writing skills are great” and she also has “fantastic” oral advocacy skills arguing before appellate courts—a combination that makes Maggie “the complete package.”

In addition to representing parties on appeal, Maggie has been actively involved in drafting the Indiana Appellate Rules, is a leader in the state and national appellate practice communities, and is a regular presenter and author on appellate topics.

Prior to entering private practice, she served as a judicial law clerk with the Indiana Supreme Court and was an Adjunct Professor of Law at Indiana University, teaching legal writing and reasoning and appellate advocacy.

The Indiana Supreme Court appointed Maggie to an eight-year term on its Committee on Rules of Practice and Procedure in 2009, and in this capacity, she was engaged in the continuous study of all the Indiana Rules of Procedure (Trial Rules, Evidence Rules, Jury Rules, Appellate Rules, Professional Conduct Rules, etc.). Maggie was actively involved in the e-filing projects, Administrative Rule 9(G) overhaul, and the appellate rules.

In 2024, the Governor of Indiana, Eric Holcomb, awarded Maggie a Sagamore of the Wabash based on her contributions to the legal community. This is the highest honor an Indiana governor gives, and Maggie is now a member of the Society of Sagamores which consists of Indiana's most distinguished citizens.
