Zachary is a dedicated associate specializing in business litigation. During his career, he has handled matters such as comprehensive pleading and motion drafting, as well as handling complex discovery matters. Zachary also has experience performing discrete regulatory research as well as pre-litigation negotiations.

During his time at Wake Forest Law, Zachary was an Executive Editor of the Journal of Law and Policy, as well as being a member of Wake Forest's Moot Court Board. This valuable writing and advocacy experience continues to shape his practice.

In his free time, Zachary likes to hunt, golf, and spend time with his family exploring scenic areas around Kentucky. He also likes to spend time getting involved in the community, and hopes to expand his advocacy to provide access to legal resources in traditionally under-served areas of his home region in eastern Kentucky.
