Partners Eric Lamb and Samantha M. Quimby of FBT Gibbons have been recognized in the 2026 WTR Global Leaders guide, which identifies the world's leading trademark practitioners based on research from World Trademark Review's WTR 1000 and WTR 300 rankings. Lamb was recognized in Indiana and Quimby in Ohio.

The annual guide recognizes a select group of trademark professionals from private practice and in-house legal departments worldwide, highlighting individuals who have demonstrated excellence in trademark strategy, brand protection, portfolio management, enforcement, and related intellectual property matters.

Lamb counsels publicly traded and privately held companies on trademark and brand protection strategies worldwide. He manages all aspects of global trademark portfolio development, enforcement, and dispute resolution, and regularly advises both U.S.-based and international clients on protecting intellectual property rights across jurisdictions. As a member of the firm's International Services Group, he works closely with a global network of trademark professionals to support clients' international branding objectives.

Quimby is an experienced trademark attorney who advises domestic and international clients on trademark, trade dress, anti-counterfeiting, and unfair competition matters. Her practice focuses on trademark clearance, prosecution, licensing, and enforcement, including litigation and proceedings before the Trademark Trial and Appeal Board. She is particularly known for her work protecting high-profile consumer, sports, collegiate, and food and beverage brands, including anti-counterfeiting initiatives and successful domain name recovery actions for some of the world's most recognizable organizations.
