FBT Gibbons partners David E. De Lorenzi and Robert E. Rudnick have been recognized by Intellectual Asset Management (IAM) in its 2027 Global Leaders guide. De Lorenzi is recognized by IAM for the ninth consecutive year, and Rudnick for the third consecutive year.

IAM Global Leaders recognizes private practice patent professionals. Inclusion is reserved for individuals ranked in the gold tier of IAM Patent 1000. De Lorenzi leads the firm's Life Sciences Industry Team, and both attorneys are members of FBT Gibbons' Intellectual Property practice.

FBT Gibbons' full-service Intellectual Property practice includes more than 70 professionals with experience across patents, trade secrets, trademarks, copyrights, and advertising. The team handles licensing, prosecution, litigation, and portfolio management, with notable depth in manufacturing and life sciences.
