Only Columbus-based private practice attorney included on the list

Frost Brown Todd (FBT) Member Sam Quimby is the only Columbus-based private practice attorney included in the second annual World Trademark Review (WTR) Global Leaders ranking. The list recognizes the world's leading legal and corporate experts in trademark practice while giving the broader community the opportunity to benefit from their specialized knowledge and experience. To be considered, you must have already been recognized in the WTR 1000 or WTR 300 rankings or manage a market-leading research project. WTR Global Leaders aims to highlight what makes these trademark professionals industry leaders.

Quimby leads FBT's Trademark practice. She has been recognized by clients for her "very practical and business-minded" approach to client service and has been quoted as having "built a very sophisticated practice" with her "striking knowledge of trademark law." This is Quimby's second time making the WTR Global Leaders list. She is a seven-time WTR 1000 gold band honoree. Only 165 attorneys from the U.S. were included in the list of private practice attorneys. Six of those were from Ohio.
