In 2020, Environmental, Social and Corporate Governance (ESG) has become more important than ever. Fund managers, advisors and investors alike are interested to learn as much as they can about sustainability and the societal impact that companies play, especially in the realm of Finance and Private Equity. In this webinar, Frost Brown Todd and the Apex Group will discuss ESG and the ways that we can use it to evaluate a company's future financial performance. They will also talk about the SEC's examination priorities in this area, branch as the Commission has increased its focus on disclosures related to the methods and criteria of new ESG funds.
