

Change on the Horizon: Kentucky Historic Preservation Tax Credit Updates

Mar 17, 2022

Categories:

Blogs

Multifamily Matters

Authors:

J. Christopher Coffman

Amy F. Curry

An update to this post is available at Kentucky Historic Preservation Tax Credit Updates.

A major expansion of Kentucky's Historic Preservation Tax Credit may soon be law. On March 15, the Kentucky House of Representatives voted 85 to 2 to pass HB 659, which would amend Kentucky Revised Statute (KRS) 171.397 and increase the maximum credit a taxpayer can claim for both owner-occupied residential properties and commercial properties. The bill, sponsored by Rep. Steven Rudy (R), Majority Floor Leader, and Rep. David W. Osborne (R), Speaker of the House, will now be introduced in the Kentucky Senate and referred to a standing committee. If the committee reports HB 659 favorably, it will receive three readings before a final vote is taken. The bill must pass in the Senate by the end of this current legislative session on April 14, and be signed by Governor Andy Beshear in order to become law.

Expansion of Historic Preservation Tax Credit

HB 659 would double the maximum permissible tax credit for owner-occupied residential properties from $60,000 to $120,000. The more significant change would be to the maximum permissible tax credit for properties that are not owner-occupied residential expanding the maximum permissible tax credit for such eligible historic properties 25 times the previous maximum of $400,000 to $10 million.

Increasing the maximum state historic preservation tax credit eligibility for individual taxpayers increases the ability of developers to undertake large historic preservation projects because the increased project cap permits developers greater access to tax credits to mitigate rehabilitation costs.

This bill follows the General Assembly's expansion of the overall annual state cap from $5 million to $100 million in 2020. That cap expansion placed Kentucky on par with surrounding states whose programs often offer tens of millions of dollars in credits annually, and in some cases, are even uncapped.

Corrective Action to Permit Transferability of Historic Preservation Tax Credits

In addition to increasing the maximum credits that taxpayers can claim for eligible historic properties, HB 659 makes an important corrective change to ensure the continued transferability of the tax credits. Transferability of the credits is important because developers often elect to transfer the credits to financial institutions with tax liabilities equal to or in excess of the value of the tax credits in exchange for capital investment in the historic property that is used towards the costs of the historic preservation project.

Currently, KRS 171.397 only permits a taxpayer to transfer or assign the tax credits to a financial institution subject to the bank franchise tax under KRS 136.505. However, prior legislation in 2019 eliminated the bank franchise tax on financial institutions for tax years beginning on or after January 1, 2021. Following the repeal, financial institutions are now only subject to the corporate income tax under KRS 141.040 and the limited liability entity tax under KRS 141.0401.

As a result, the prior tax legislation inadvertently limited the transferability of tax credits for tax years beginning on or after January 1, 2021, creating concern about the continued ability of taxpayers to transfer and monetize the credits as an additional source of capital for historic preservation projects. HB 659 corrects this issue by confirming taxpayers can elect to transfer or assign tax credits to financial institutions subject to the bank franchise tax, corporation income tax and limited liability entity tax under KRS 136.505, KRS 141.040, and KRS 141.0401, respectively.

Together, these changes should increase the demand for historic preservation tax credits and the number of projects Kentucky approves each year.

Eligibility

The Kentucky Historic Preservation Tax Credit, created in 2005, is administered by the Kentucky Heritage Council State Historic Preservation office. For owner-occupied residential properties, 30% of qualified rehabilitation expenses are eligible for the tax credit. For all other property, 20% of qualified rehabilitation expenses are eligible.

Qualifying projects must be listed in the National Register of Historic Places. Projects located in National Register Districts can also qualify, subject to approval by the National Parks Service as a site of historical significance. Projects must also meet the U.S. Secretary of the Interior's Standards for the Treatment of Historical Properties to maintain eligibility.

Taxpayers interested in receiving the Kentucky Historic Preservation Tax Credit for projects commencing construction this year should apply for a preliminary determination of maximum credit eligibility by April 29, 2022.

Conclusion

Frost Brown Todd counsels investors, developers, lenders, and other key stakeholders on historical preservation transactions across the country. We stay at the forefront of all legislative efforts affecting the industry, and we are ready to assist clients with navigating the changing legislative environment.

For more information, please contact Chris Coffman, Amy Curry, or any attorney with Frost Brown Todd's Multifamily industry team.

Multifamily Matters Blog

Providing relevant legal perspectives to keep developers, investors, and lenders at the forefront of the multifamily industry in our footprint.

Visit Blog

© 2026 FBT Gibbons LLP. May be considered attorney advertising in some jurisdictions.