Miller is based in FBT's Indianapolis Office

Attorney Ronnie Miller has joined CivicPoint as Principal. Miller has more than two decades of experience working with a variety of government agencies and advising on issues related to everything from election law and campaign finance to political action committees, government ethics, compliance issues and the Lobbying Disclosure Act. Miller will also serve as counsel for Frost Brown Todd (FBT). CivicPoint is a subsidiary of FBT. He will work out of FBT's Indianapolis office.

Miller also assists clients in their federal and state government relations needs, including advocating for client interests with members and staff of Congress and state legislatures, as well as staff and leadership of federal and state executive branch agencies.

Licensed to practice in both Indiana and Washington D.C., he previously served as Deputy Commissioner and General Counsel at the Indiana Department of Workforce Development, Director of Appeals and Chief Administrative Law Judge at the Indiana Department of Workforce Development, and Director of Trial Court Management for the Indiana Supreme Court. For more than a decade, Miller has served clients in both Indiana and Washington D.C. with their legal and advocacy needs.
