AlvaradoSmith welcomes Mexico's Consul General, Ambassador Marcela Celorio, to Los Angeles

AlvaradoSmith was proud to host an event in our Los Angeles office with the Los Angeles Latino Chamber of Commerce recently, to welcome the new Consul General of Mexico, Ambassador Marcela Celorio.

The Consulate General of Mexico in Los Angeles is the most important consulate headquarters for Mexico. Los Angeles is home to the largest population of Mexican citizens outside Mexico, and business and the cultural ties between Southern California and our neighbor to the south run deep and strong. AlvaradoSmith is happy to do its part to further enhance these ties, and to make Ambassador Celorio feel welcome in her new position.

AlvaradoSmith attorneys look forward to partnering with Mexico's Consulate General and creating business opportunities for the L.A. community and the firm's cross-national clients.
